The President's Letter

Hi, all!

Summer is definitely here! Took a friend for an RV ride a day or so ago and from the vantage of 8000 ft. msl the retreat of the snow on the mountains was dramatically evident, a sure sign of the season. So was the full view of the Cascades from beyond Vancouver to south of Mt. Rainer. Surely the Lord has blessed this place and us with the means to view its beauty and majesty.

With summer comes aviation events, and this weekend (6/18 - 6/20) is the 6th Annual Gathering of Warbirds at OLM. I had been planning to fly in. Then we get two Presidential TFR's based on SEA and Ft. Lewis for the 18th and 19th. Being the 60-mile type with 20-mile No-Fly cores these shut down a lot of our local airports, and I fear the Olympia event will be badly impacted. I know it deters me, and I fear others from all over the Northwest may go somewhere else and avoid the restrictions. A shame, particularly with the excellent flying weather in the forecast. A sad commentary on our current world.

Speaking of TFR's the latest Seattle charts have our four local TFR's depicted officially for the first time. Not too easy to see quickly, but better than no depiction at all.

Did you come to our May Pot-Luck/Cook-Out on May 29th? 51 people did, and had a great time. We do it again Saturday, 6/26. Noon at Sequim Valley Airport, Hangar #10. We'll do it again the last Saturday in July. Come and enjoy!

Cookouts are a nice social activity for our Chapter. We want to provide activities, both at our meetings and at other venues that meet the desires of our members, hence the little questionnaire circulated by newsletter and at last month's meeting. We got six responses. Your Board had hoped for more. So the questionnaire is again in this Flyer and will be at the meeting. If you did not give us the benefit of your thoughts before I hope you will do so now.

The next (as I write this) local aviation event is the return of the Collings Foundation's B-17 And B-24 bombers to Port Angeles. That is Monday 6/21 through 6/23. Some of us are volunteer workers for this event, and we will try and have a report for the June Chapter Meeting. Last year's visit was the most successful stop on their whole West Coast tour.

I am sure that elsewhere in this Flyer Jim Cone will have a report on our International Young Eagles Day activities so I won't jump the gun on him. But I must say that we surely have struck a responsive chord in the local community. Despite a dampening day they came to fly, and many for the second time.

Arlington is coming up fast, and I hope we have a good Chapter attendance. Next Chapter meeting is June 30th at Sequim Valley, 7:00 PM. Chapter member Ralph Trefney will present a program on aircraft wiring. He is an expert in the field - come and learn. I will!! See you there! Bob Hicks

OLD BUSINESS-

The Mission Statement drafts put together by Ken Brown, Gunar Clem and Mark Schiely were presented for review. ## Cone's Corner:

Nothing from Jim Cone.

Young Eagle events.

- Port Townsend July 17-18 two day event. This takes lots of pilots and ground support.
- Diamond Point Airport day August 7. Always a good time and good crowd.

From Alan Barnard:

Please put in a mention about the RE/MAX Performance Team Pilot's Barbeque on Aug. 27th at 5:00 PM prior to the next days Pilot's Education Forum. Jim and Bev Cone offered to help set up and bring side dishes. Anyone from EAA that wants to bring a side dish would be appreciated. I don't know how many to plan for at this point in time, but I suspect most will be locals, probably in the 50 to 75 in number range...just a guess. I will have braut, hamburgers, buns, drinks, plates, utensils etc. Other side dishes would fill things in. Perhaps if Jim and Bev don't mind, EAA folks could coordinate with them?

Safety First

REACHING FOR NEW RUNWAYS (from Training at AOPA)

What airports have you visited on your cross-country training flights? What airports do you expect to visit? Of all the features you will notice when you start researching these fields, runways often make the biggest impression. You can find out about them in AOPA's Airport Directory Online or the FAA's airport/facility directories.

So much about runways can be new to your experience: varying lengths and widths, surfaces, markings—even the sheer number of runways at airports can differ from your home field. Visiting short or soft-surfaced runways may become your introduction to the specialized takeoff and landing techniques that are part of your private pilot training, as described by Budd Davisson in the October 2002 AOPA Flight Training feature "Field Work."

Suppose your home airport has a single runway labeled 14-32. An airport you plan to visit has two runways with those same reciprocal magnetic bearings. How are these parallel runways identified? One will bear a combination of 14L and 32R (the letters mean left and right), and the other will be designated 14R and 32L. There could even be a third runway with the letter C (center) after the numbers. A runway oriented to different bearings may intersect one or more of the parallel runways—and all this sometimes creates a complicated network of taxiways worth studying in advance.

If an airport's runways do intersect and there is a control tower at the airport, you may experience new procedures. For more on operations at towered airports, see the feature article in the November 1998 Flight Training, or download the AOPA Air Safety Foundation's Safety Advisor, Operations at Towered Airports.

Perhaps nontowered airports are new to your experience; what to do there is as mysterious to you as towered airports are to other trainees. Check the information sources provided in the July 3, 2002, "Training Tips" or download the Operations at Nontowered Airports Safety Advisor before heading out. Clearly, there is a lot more to using new runways than just knowing lengths, surfaces, and direction.
